 - Greetings to all
 - The event planning is going steadily along. Much of the finer details hinge on how many competitors we have commit for this weekend.
 - Crier Copy had been submitted. The new expanded copy will be available on the Upcoming events site this weekend.
 - Space is reserved for all entrants, displays, youth display, merchants, administrative minions, royals, and a common gathering room.
 - The site is 100% wheelchair accessible and assistance animals are allowed.
 - The number of classes we are able to offer will depend on how many bardic competitors there are as they get first priority on the rooms.
 - Guild displays will be accommodated if there is interest.
 - There is a lovely outdoor space for a fight practice (weather permitting) and our winter this year has been very mild and by March it is typically lovely.
 - The schedule and site handout are in very draft stages now. Any additions, requests or ideas to include please send to me so they can be added.
 - There will be much more detailed information coming out over the next couple of weeks.
 - I will be working closely with all those arranging the competitions, the youth displays and merchants to make sure there is adequate space for all.

Curia Minutes

Notes by: Hlaefdige Thora

We are in the process of constructing an independent website for 12th Night Coronation and are expecting that it will go live soon after 12th Night coronation in Silverhart. We are anticipating that reservations for the hotel will be open by February 1st, and I will publicize when reservations are open, if it happens before that time.

The design for site tokens is progressing and production of those should start very soon.

The decorations committee, is already coming up with wonderful ways to decorate the hotel. The staff will have a walk through tour on January 21st

The theme for the dance on Friday night will be "The Black Lion Ball".

We have recruited a number of volunteers and all the major roles have been filled.

In humble service An Tir and the dream
